Experts predict that in the future there will be fewer jobs for people who do not have computer skills or speak languages. This means that these skills will probably become more and more important for the workers of the future.

If you are unemployed and looking for a job, you will have to improve your skills for work in order to access new opportunities. There are many online and classroom courses you can choose, but you must start as soon as possible.

Learning these new skills will definitely improve your job prospects, so the best thing you can do while you are unemployed is do a training course. There are many public and private institutions which can help people to learn new skills. Some courses are one or two years long, and others are short and intensive. Most of them also give students the opportunity to learn and practice while they are looking for employment.

It is a good idea to prepare a CV (Curriculum Vitae) in English. This is a document of one or two pages with your personal details, education, skills and work experience.

If you already have a job, it is also possible to get further training through your employer and get a better job in the company where you work.
